The story about Margaret Mercer and Hilbert Williams

In Duplin County, N.C., on Sept. 30, 1936, there was a little girl born to Beulah Stancil and Flave Mercer. They named her Margaret Elizabeth. She got the middle name Elizabeth from her daddy's mother. She was always very tiny (until she passed 30) but she was always healthy. There were four children before her, Fannie Jean (1931-1931); Reuben Earl (1932); Ann (1934-2012); A.R. (1935-2013).

The little farm house was very full of little feet, a lot of love and plenty of food. Flave was a farmer but to keep everyone fed in the winter, he would go to Camp Davis at Holly Ridge and work as a carpenter. Mama had all she could do to keep us four in school, raise chickens for food and eggs, tend a big garden and help daddy on the farm with feeding livestock.

The house was small but they all managed fine. In the mid-40s, Flave had gotten our little farm paid off and he began to think about building mama's dream house with plenty of room and next to the highway. In 1947, it was completed and the family moved in.

"In 1949, another little girl was born. They named her Wanda. I was so happy to know that I would not be the baby anymore,"

Margaret and Hilbert Williams

Margaret said.

After Margaret graduated from Beulaville High School in 1954, she went to work in a sewing store in Beulaville, N.C. Later she went to work at the Duplin County Clerk's Office in Kenansville, N.C.

"It was during this time that I started dating Hilbert," Margaret said.

Hilbert was also born in Duplin County to a small farmer and his wife, Mollie Brown and John Edward Williams on Sept. 20, 1936. He had two older sisters Dorothy (1921-2006) and Madeline (Skinner) (1922-2012). He graduated from Chinquapin High School in 1954 and went to work with the DuPont Company in Kinston; N.C. that fall and worked until he retired in 1991 with 36 years' service. In the fall of 1958, Margaret went to work at DuPont.

"We were married at my parent's house on Nov. 19, 1960," Margaret said. "It was a small wedding with only family and a few close friends. I was married in a blue suit which I made. The Rev. Joe Ingram did the ceremony after which we had a small reception. Then we left on our honeymoon. We went to Florida for a week. When we got back home, we stayed with his mama for about two weeks while our house was being finished."

After 57 years, they are still living in the same house. In 1980, we did some adding on and remodeling.

Margaret and Hilbert started their family in 1966 when son Johnny was born. Margaret could not leave him and go back to DuPont so she decided to stay home and be a mom. They built two poultry houses and she took care of them while Hilbert was at work. In 1970, they were blessed with a little girl named Tammie.

As the children grew, they loved to go to amusement parks and ride all the rides, so that was where they always went on vacation.

After the children got older and finished high school and were attending college, they began to do more of our kind of vacationing. Margaret and Hilbert love to ride and just see all the different landscapes.

"We had a special couple, Ray and Jan Lanier, that we double dated with and they traveled with us most everywhere we went," Margaret said. "We traveled in 49 of the 50 states and several of the Canadian Providences. We would not fly so we had to miss Hawaii. We even drove all the way to Alaska and back. We came back on the Alaskan Highway. We really enjoyed that trip."

In 1994, another change came into their lives — they became grandparents and as they say that is the best.

Johnny married Rose Thigpen in 1988 and they gave birth to a son named Taylor. Then in 1996, they had a girl and they named her Carson. Tammie married Michael Blackburn in 1993 and in 1998 they had twin boys Austin and Joshua.

All four of the grandkids graduated from East Duplin High School.

"I would publicly like to thank God for my years growing up, the values I was taught and my faith in God that was passed on to me by my parents," Margaret said. "Also thank God for putting Hilbert and I together as husband and wife and the 57 years we have lived together."

Freeman Durward Stancil, the son of Freeman Elbert Stancil, started a dairy about 1940. Durward worked in the dairy until the war started. Durward trained as an electrician while in the Army. When Durward got out of the Army, he used the skills learned in refrigeration, to modernize the dairy. Durward worked at the dairy while Elbert did repairs.

Jerry and "Uncle Chuck," his father's half-brother, close to Jerry's age, worked together while just youngsters. They helped out in the dairy.

When Elbert was 80 years old, shortly before he died. He gave all his refrigeration equipment to Jerry. Jerry's dad retired from Durward Stancil Inc., founded in 1956. The company was originally founded by Freeman Elbert Stancil, Jerry's grandfather. This was a commercial refrigeration and air conditioning company. Today they work with many farmers to preserve sweet potatoes for well over a year. This was an important niche for Jerry. His son Brian worked with him, they were on call 24 hours a day. Jerry retired this year.

Jerry has important hobbies. He helped identify Civil War Soldiers and obtain monuments for their graves.

Jerry has a wealth of knowledge about the Stancil family. He has many genealogy books and documents. He has helped family members find information, so they can join Daughters or Sons of the American Revolution. He also knows how Stancils are related.

First Reunion

The first Stancil Reunion was held in late 1902.

Delaney and Tom hosted the first Stancil Reunion. Children living away from Johnston County were Samuel in Wilson County, N.C., Harvey and George in Duplin County and Catherine in Atkinson, Ga. Letters were written and they all attended the first Stancil Reunion.

Guests included Marceline Edwards, a close family friend. Marceline was aunt of Allie Edwards, who married Oscar Stancil, son of Henry Stancil, in 1908. Alonza and his wife, Ada and daughter Lena Maie Stancil.

The photo of the First Reunion shows tapestries hung on the walls of the cabin to dress it up.

A Look Back | 85 years ago

This article was originally printed in The Johnstonian-Sun, Selma, N.C., on Aug. 31, 1933:

Following up on a custom of more than 30 years, the children and grandchildren of the late J.T. Stancil met at the old Stancil homestead, now the home of Mr. G.I. Stancil on last Friday to celebrate their annual reunion.

This reunion had a very small beginning when only the immediate family of the late J.T. Stancil met in a small family circle years ago, but it has grown from year to year until the congregation fills the yard and takes in several individual families who are direct descendants of the late J.T. Stancil.

While all of this splendid family were not present on last Friday, nevertheless, the gathering was one of the largest ever held.

The Rev. D.F. Waddell, of Selma, was a special guest at the reunion this year, and after a long table had been filled with many of the most choice foods of the land, Mr. Waddell was asked to have a few words to say, to which he readily responded in a very appropriate manner by portraying the importance of assembling ourselves together. After he had concluded his remarks, he then gave thanks for the dinner and the entire occasion, following which everybody present enjoyed a most bountiful feast from this table of good things prepared by the hands of some of the best cooks in all Johnston County.

Lemonade was a special feature served to all from large tubs free throughout the day.

The following is a list of some of those present:

Mr. and Mrs. G.I. Stancil, 11 children and 9 grandchildren; Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Stancil, 4 children and 4 grandchildren; Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Stancil, 2 children and 3 grandchildren; Mrs. Henry Stancil, 4 children and 10 grandchildren; Her children present were Mrs. Manley Creech, her husband and 5 children; Mrs. Marvin Godwin, her husband and 5 children; A.R. Stancil and wife and 7 children and 7 grandchildren; Jim Kirby and wife and 3 children; Mrs. J.J. Aycock and 4 children of Fremont, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Stancil and 5 children; Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Stancil, 2 children and 6 grandchildren, of Aberdeen, N.C.; Nevel Stancil and wife and 3 children; Elijah Scott and wife and 6 children; Mr. Cornice Downing, of Fremont, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Grover Eason and mother; Mr. and Mrs. Levi Edwards and

1 child; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Campbell and 2 children; Mr. and Mrs. Deamon Woodward and 3 children; Mrs. Ransom Kirby and 2 children; Mrs. W.G. Pittman and 1 child; Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Pittman Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Renfrow and 2 children; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Capps; Mr. and Mrs. George Sasser and 3 children, of Goldsboro, N.C.; Mrs. W.M. Neil, of Goldsboro, N.C.; Mrs. Tom Hinnant and 3 children of Buckhorn, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Atkinson; Mr. Clyde Stancil, of Raleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Creech; Mr. J.W. Gaylor, of Greenville, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Pittman and 5 children; Mr. and Mrs. Grayden Renfrow and 2 children; Mr. and Mrs. Flaive Mercer and 1 child, of Duplin County; Rev. D.F. Waddell and M.L. Stancil, of Selma, and a few other invited guests whose names we did not get.

One interesting feature of the day was that of listening to Mrs. J.S. Stancil tell of some of her experiences while making an airplane trip to California and back and looking at some of the picture views taken on the trip. Mrs. Stancil made the flight across the continent as a passenger without ever entering a plane before.
